Blanco Faron XL 6 S in Silgranit PuraDur*The sink for fans of the country-house look

Wood, tiles, stone and other natural materials create a cosy look in the kitchen. Well-designed details and high-tech features that offer maximum convenience are hugely popular when it comes to functional equipment to assist cooking. For those who love the modern country-house look, Blanco has a particularly charming and contemporary Silgranit PuraDur sink among its range: Faron XL 6 S features a design that interprets distinctive elements of the country-house style in an elegant new way.

Classy double grooves on the drainer and tap ledge are reminiscent of traditional wall panelling, yet the sink's straight lines also give it a modern look. The drainer and side mixer tap ledge are harmoniously matched. Fine profile edges to both the side of the sink and the cutting board enhance the harmonious design. The spacious XL bowl, which is also equipped with the top-quality InFino drain system, offers plenty of room for large pots, grills and baking sheets.

Faron XL 6 S comes in all ten of the CombiColours for an array of planning options. The optional solid ash cutting board also adds to the country-house feel. This board can either be positioned alongside the whole sink or across it, in order to prepare food. The version of the board featuring burnt-in ornamental decoration provides a particularly charming accent in the kitchen. Details like these create a modern country-house atmosphere that will delight even city-dwellers.

The sink for fans of the country-house look: the Blanco Faron XL 6 S sink has particular appeal. It adeptly reinterprets traditional elements of the country-house style and offers impressive convenience and decorative accessories. Made of outstanding easy-care and resistant Silgranit PuraDur, Faron XL 6 S comes in all of the CombiColour shades, allowing it to blend harmoniously into modern country-house kitchens. Many mixer taps can be combined with Faron XL 6 S, with Blanco Livia-S in manganese a particularly good match.
